

Virtual Teambuilding

Strategically designed virtual team building activities provide communication while reinforcing a shared team identity. These activities can also mitigate the engagement-draining challenges of a remote or distributed workforce.

For example...

- When remote workers feel lonely, isolated, or unsupported, a virtual team building activity can remind them of all the amazing people they have behind them.
- When remote workers feel their excitement slipping, a virtual team building activity can help them rekindle their passion by exposing them to excited co-workers.
- When an organization currently can't meet in person but want to stay connected during the "new normal".

Virtual Programming opportunities include icebreakers, strategic teambuilding exercises, and virtual escape rooms. All virtual teambuilding will utilize Zoom. Attendees will need to be able to view the call screen for effective programming.

Cost

Based on the size of your group and how long you want your virtual team building event to be, the pricing is listed below. Prices increase base on size mainly due to the amount of time needed for preparation ahead of time and administration work required at the beginning of your activity.

Pricing is for student organizations. For departments, add $2.
